

Introduction

After sending the 2004 Hardball Times Baseball Annual to presses just a week after the season ended, it was probably inevitable that we would find a few mistakes. Recently, one of our readers pointed out that the Double Play data in our fielding tables might be wrong. As we investigated the discrepancy, we found that the DP totals for a number of players were a little off, and a lot off for several other players.

Rather than list all the corrections individually, we have published these tables of corrected fielding data for all infielders and outfielders. The table formats are exactly the same as in the Annual, but the numbers (mostly double play totals) have been corrected. You'll find American League teams listed starting on page 2, and National League teams starting on page 18.

Most of the fielding stats remain unchanged. When reading the tables, you'll still find that...

- Juan Pierre still played every single Florida Marlin inning in center field.
- Jeromy Burnitz actually led the Rockies in inning played in both center field and right field.
- Also on the Rockies, 2B Aaron Miles made three times as many throwing errors as 3B Vinny Castilla.
- For you New York fans, Derek Jeter and Kaz Matsui still played shortstop for their respective teams.
- And the Royals tried out a gazillion players in the outfield (and everywhere else).

We hope you find this addendum useful. Remember to keep checking for updates at:
